Re: DISCUSSION OF AWARDS FOR SERVICE TO PUBLIC EDUCATION

Mr. Ewing commented that the paper provided by the superintendent on existing awards was very useful. It showed that MCPS had responded to an earlier Board policy on having a wide range of recognition and awards. What he was proposing was something that would not replace what already existed but rather something that would add a further dimension and provide them with an opportunity to recognize those engaged in public education. He proposed providing a set of awards that would be given annually for distinguished service to education. Awards would be given to both MCPS employees and persons in the community, and they would be based on recommendation from the superintendent to the Board. The Board would hold a ceremony to present these awards, and he emphasized that no funds would be given as part of the award.

Mr. Ewing pointed out that the federal government had such a program of distinguished public service awards without cash, and these awards were highly regarded by federal employees. He believed that for MCPS to have such a program would be a special and unique approach to rewarding individuals. He could think of about 15 to 20 people who would be candidates for the awards. In these difficult fiscal times when they were asking people to make special efforts, this would be a way of recognizing their contributions.

Mrs. Hobbs asked whether the Board staff would have to oversee the awards process, and Mr. Ewing replied that he assumed that the superintendent would handle this. The superintendent would make recommendations to the Board. Mr. Ewing indicated that there was nothing on the table now, and he would be bringing the Board a proposed resolution. Re: POLICY ON MIDDLE SCHOOL EDUCATION

Dr. Cheung moved and Ms. Gutierrez seconded the following:

WHEREAS, On June 27, 1988, the Board of Education adopted a policy on the Framework and Structure of Middle Level Education which states that "each school should include Grades 6 through 8 whenever possible"; and

WHEREAS, On February 12, 1991, the Board of Education adopted a series of Action Areas which included middle school implementation; and

WHEREAS, On August 28, 1991, the Board of Education adopted a resolution instructing the superintendent to develop "a comprehensive middle school policy that replaces all other policies dealing with the structure, organization, and educational programs for those students of middle school age"; and

WHEREAS, On March 10, 1992, the Board of Education affirmed its commitment to middle schools as the form of organization for students in Grades 6, 7, and 8 and to the programmatic benefits of middle schools as described in the policy on the Framework and Structure of Middle Level Education on June 27, 1988; and

WHEREAS, On May 12, 1992, the Board of Education tentatively adopted the draft policy and requested that it be sent out for public comment; and

WHEREAS, The superintendent has received positive feedback from the public; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Board of Education take final action on the tentatively adopted policy on Middle School Education; and be it further

Resolved, That the Board of Education rescind Resolution No. 347-88, June 27, 1988, that adopted Policy IEB: Framework and Structure of Middle Level Education.

Middle School Education

A. Purpose

To provide guidelines and directions to staff and community for establishing school programs that meet the educational and social-emotional needs of all pre- and early adolescents in keeping with the Montgomery County Goals of Education and the Annotated Code of Maryland  To focus on the intellectual growth and the social, emotional, and physical growth of students in their middle learning years

To provide a framework for staff, parent, and community participation in the organization of schools and the delivery of instructional programs (See Policy ABC: Parental Involvement and Administrative Regulation ABC-RA: Parent for specific information regarding Involvement parent Other related policies and regulations on such involvement. matters as grading and reporting student progress, attendance, and homework provide more specific information and guidelines on these topics.)

B. Philosophy

Each student has a unique combination of abilities and talents, learning rates and styles, hopes and dreams, and problems and fears. Rapid physical change in early adolescents creates greater diversity and variability in cognitive functioning and personality development.

Middle school education willshould address the unique needs and characteristics of emerging adolescents in grades six through eight. It is designed to enable all students to make sense of their world. Students willshould learn the skills to utilize information that is rapidly changing and broad in scope. It is the responsibility of the middle school staff to help students develop the ability to find and analyze information, pose problems and seek solutions, persevere, collaborate, and take responsibility for their own learning.

All staff are expected to exhibit acceptance of individual differences including race, gender, culture, values, and abilities.

- C. Position
  - 1. Curriculum

Curriculum willshould address questions young adolescents have about themselves and the world around them, and questions posed to them by the world in which they live. It willshould address the needs of all students, including those with special needs.

- a. Both curriculum content and methodology must relate to the interests and needs of young adolescents. It must emphasize both product and process.
- b. The curriculum willshould be interdisciplinary and willshould:

- (1) AddressBe based upon content from the following curricularinstructional areas: English/language arts, mathematics, social studies, science, foreign language, physical education, art, dance, drama, music, technology education, and home economics
- (2) Include activities from another discipline or focus on a specific theme, problem-solving, or decision-making skills
- c. Middle school is a time for exploration. Students willshould engage in a variety of experiences and have opportunities to explore a range of courses.
- d. Required and exploratory courses and special interest activities willshould:
  - (1) Provide forEnsure that students to develop personal attributes, such as study skills, self-esteem, responsibility, integrity, and pride in achievements
  - (2) Include problem solving, decision making, and thinking skills
- 2. Instructional Practices

Instructional practices willshould incorporate a variety of activities and strategies that encourage students to be active and engaged learners, that provide for the wide range of achievement and energy levels, and that address intellectual, physical, and emotional development of adolescents. Students willshould be given choices and the opportunity to initiate activities.

- a. Differentiated instructional practices willshould reflect a wide range of physical, social, emotional, and intellectual growth.
- b. Experiences that promote thinking, from concrete to abstract, willshould include strategies such as:
  - (1) Performance-based learning experiences
  - (2) Cognitive monitoring
  - (3) Real-life situations
  - (4) Background knowledge

- (5) Decision-making skills
- (6) Problem-solving activities
- c. A large selection of age-appropriate, nonstereotypical, and multi-perspective materials willshould be available. When necessary and possible, materials and equipment will be adapted to meet the developmental needs of a student. All students need the opportunity to utilize a variety of technology as tools for learning.
- d. All students willshould be grouped and regrouped over the course of the day, week, and marking period in a way that allows them to meet and work with a broad spectrum of peers. Both homogeneous and heterogeneous grouping arewill be appropriate. No grouping arrangement should deny a student access to advanced learning. Grouping willshould be reviewed periodically and adjustments made based on the student's progress, emerging abilities, interests, talents, and social and affective needs.
- e. In both the planning and the implementation of instruction, middle schools willshould utilize the special skills of all regular, alternative, and special education staff members.
- f. Instructional practices should provide leadership opportunities for students.
- g. Students should be given the opportunity to learn in community and other non-school settings.
- 3. Organization and Staffing
  - a. All schools between elementary and high school willshould be called "Middle Schools," whether or not they contain the sixth grade.
  - b. Middle school staffs willshould:
    - (1) Balance content and pedagogy
    - (2) Be knowledgeable about the characteristics of early adolescents and effective instructional programs and strategies.
    - (3) Reflect, to the extent possible, the multicultural population in MCPS

- c. The interdisciplinary team model willshould be the standard for organization in middle schools. An interdisciplinary team is defined as a group of teachers who work with the same group of students and have a common team meeting period.
  - (1) The schools' team leadership should represent as many curriculum areas as possible.
  - (2) Teams at a given grade level willshould be assigned, taking into consideration composition by gender, race, ethnicity, and academic achievement.
  - (3) The number of students on teams willshould allow for the implementation of the interdisciplinary model.
  - (4) The interdisciplinary team willshould be the primary vehicle for teacher-parent communication and collaboration.
- d. Flexibility within the schedule should be provided in order to facilitate interdisciplinary teaching, teacher-advisor or mentoring efforts, activity periods, and instructional support periods.
- e. Staffing should be adequate to support the interdisciplinary team organizational structure and content integrity.
- f. Middle schools willshould develop articulation plans to facilitate student transition, placement, and program continuity at each level.
- 4. School Climate

The nature of the learning environment is a critical factor in the intellectual, physical, and social-emotional development of each student. Each student needs to be encouraged to develop personal integrity, respect for differences, and social responsibility, as well as the desire, confidence, and capacity to strive for excellence.

To develop a climate that fosters student growth, schools willshould:

a. Ensure that students are expected, encouraged, and given opportunities to learn and succeed in a stimulating and supportive environment

- b. Establish high expectations for scholastic achievement and success of all students
- c. Provide a safe, orderly, and drug-free environment
- d. Support appreciation for and sensitivity toward all
- e. Value and foster positive risk-taking to encourage intellectual inquiry and develop self-confidence
- f. Promote effective human relations
- g. View discipline as a means of helping students develop citizenship skills and responsibility for self
- h. Acknowledge and recognize student, staff, and community achievements
- i. Work to ensure that the total school population is reflected in all school activities
- 5. Student Support and Reinforcement

Middle schools willshould provide a coordinated support and reinforcement program designed to address individual student needs and assessment measures.

- a. Support programs willshould foster student social, emotional, and academic progress. Examples of support programs include peer tutoring, homework club, mentors, homebase, teacher-advisory programs, peer counseling, team parents, and other cocurricular activities designed to improve overall student performance.
- b. Self-esteem for every student willshould be promoted through activities that enable students to develop skills in goal setting, problem solving, conflict resolution, leadership, and organization.
- c. Programs willshould provide positive reinforcement for students. Teams should use activities that reward, praise, and recognize efforts as they relate to the diverse needs and abilities of students.
- d. The Educational Management Team process willshould be incorporated into the interdisciplinary team structuremeeting.

- 6. Staff Development
  - a. MCPS staff willshould work closely with local teacher training institutions to share information regarding content enrichment, interdisciplinary instructional practices, and the unique needs of middle school students.
  - b. Inservice training willshould:
    - (1) Assist with middle school program implementation
    - (2) Help staff understand the unique needs of the middle school student
    - (3) Include practices and strategies for implementing the middle school program
- D. Desired Outcomes
  - 1. A curriculum that gives appropriate attention to academic goals, the development of socially acceptable behaviors, and other human development needs of early adolescents
  - 2. Required subjects, exploratory courses, and special interest activities that are integrated into every aspect of the middle school program
  - 3. Programs, courses, and learning experiences that prepare students to meet state and local learning outcomes
  - 4. Students who use higher order thinking skills
  - 5. A climate that is responsive to the changing developmental and educational needs of every student
- E. Implementation Strategies
  - 1. The curriculum willshould be implemented through a sequence of learning outcomesobjectives and related opportunities.
  - 2. Instruction in the required courses will occuris through both interdisciplinary experiences and specific subject matter.
  - 3. A broad range of assessment tools willshould be used to measure student outcomes, such as products, tests, and portfolios.

- A set of measures will be used to assess the effectiveness of the implementation and achievement of outcomes of the policy.
- 5.4. Instructional, behavior management, and counseling strategies willshould support the needs of individual students.
- F. Review and Reporting

This policy will be reviewed every three years in accordance with the Board of Education policy review process.

Resolved, That the Board of Education take final action on the tentatively adopted policy on Middle School Education; and be it further

Resolved, That the Board of Education rescind Resolution No. 347-88, June 27, 1988, that adopted Policy IEB: Framework and Structure of Middle Level Education.

Middle School Education

A. Purpose

To provide guidelines and directions to staff and community for establishing school programs that meet the educational and social-emotional needs of all pre- and early adolescents in keeping with the Montgomery County Goals of Education and the Annotated Code of Maryland

To ensure that middle schools provide strong emphasis on academic achievement and to focus on the intellectual growth and the social, emotional, and physical growth of students in their middle learning years

To encourage as well as to provide a framework for staff, parent, and community participation in the organization of schools and the delivery of instructional programs (See Policy ABC: Parental Involvement and Administrative ABC-RA: Parent Involvement Regulation for specific information regarding parent involvement. Other related policies and regulations on such matters as grading and reporting student progress, attendance, and homework provide more specific information and guidelines on these topics.)

B. Philosophy

Each student has a unique combination of abilities and talents, learning rates and styles, hopes and dreams, and problems and fears. Rapid physical change in early adolescents creates greater diversity and variability in cognitive functioning and personality development.

Middle school education will address the unique needs and characteristics of emerging adolescents in grades six through eight. It is designed to enable all students to make better sense of their world. Students will learn the skills to utilize information that is rapidly changing and broad in scope.

Middle school education will prepare students academically for high school and for eventual full participation in their communities. All students will have the opportunity to reach their academic potential, to learn higher order thinking skills, and to develop the abilities to find and analyze information, pose problems and seek solutions, persevere, collaborate, and take responsibility for their own learning.

All staff are expected to exhibit acceptance of individual differences including race, gender, culture, values, and abilities.

- C. Position
  - 1. Curriculum

Curriculum will address questions young adolescents have about themselves and the world around them, and questions posed to them by the world in which they live. It will address the needs of all students, including those with special needs.

- a. Both curriculum content and methodology must relate to the interests and needs of young adolescents. It must emphasize both product and process.
- b. The curriculum will be interdisciplinary and will:
  - (1) Address the following curricular areas: English/language arts, mathematics, social studies, science, foreign language, physical education, art, dance, drama, music, technology education, and home economics

- (2) Include activities from another discipline or focus on a specific theme, problem-solving, or decision-making skills
- c. Middle school is a time for exploration. Students will engage in a variety of experiences and have opportunities to explore a range of courses.
- d. Required and exploratory courses and special interest activities will:
  - (1) Provide for students to develop personal attributes, such as study skills, self-esteem, responsibility, integrity, and pride in achievements
  - (2) Include problem-solving, decision-making, and thinking skills
- 2. Instructional Practices

Instructional practices will incorporate a variety of activities and strategies that encourage students to be active and engaged learners, that provide for the wide range of achievement and energy levels, and that address intellectual, physical, and emotional development of adolescents. Students will be given choices and the opportunity to initiate activities.

- a. Differentiated instructional practices will address a wide range of academic abilities and physical, social, and emotional differences among students and will include acceleration, enrichment, and other strategies as needed to foster intellectual growth. Instruction should be varied to reflect the nature of the subject, the developmental characteristics of middle grades students, and the learning and teaching styles of individuals.
- b. Experiences that promote thinking, from concrete to abstract, will include strategies such as:
  - (1) Performance-based learning experiences
  - (2) Cognitive monitoring
  - (3) Real-life situations
  - (4) Background knowledge
  - (5) Decision-making skills

- (6) Problem-solving activities
- c. A large selection of age-appropriate, nonstereotypical, and multi-perspective materials will be available. When necessary and possible, materials and equipment will be adapted to meet the developmental needs of a student. All students need the opportunity to utilize a variety of technology as tools for learning.
- d. All students will be grouped and regrouped over the course of the day, week, and marking period in a way that allows them to meet and work with a broad spectrum of Both homogeneous peers. and heterogeneous grouping are appropriate. No grouping arrangement should deny a student access to advanced learning. Grouping will be reviewed periodically and adjustments made based on the student's progress, emerging abilities, interests, talents, and social and affective needs.
- e. In both the planning and the implementation of instruction, middle schools will utilize the special skills of all regular, alternative, and special education staff members.
- f. Instructional practices should provide leadership opportunities for students.
- g. Students should be given the opportunity to learn in community and other non-school settings.
- 3. Organization and Staffing
  - a. All schools between elementary and high school will be called "Middle Schools." The standard organizational arrangement in MCPS for middle schools will be grades 6-8 to be achieved as soon as practicable given facilities limitations in some cases at present.
  - b. Middle school staffs will:
    - (1) Balance content and pedagogy
    - (2) Be knowledgeable about the characteristics of early adolescents and effective instructional programs and strategies.
    - (3) Reflect, to the extent possible, the multicultural population in MCPS

- c. The interdisciplinary team model will be the standard for organization in middle schools. An interdisciplinary team is defined as a group of teachers who work with the same group of students and have a common daily team meeting period.
  - (1) The schools' teacher team leadership should represent as many curriculum areas as possible.
  - (2) Students at a given grade level will be assigned to teams reflecting a balance of composition by gender, race, ethnicity, and academic achievement.
  - (3) The number of students assigned to teams will allow for the implementation of the interdisciplinary model.
  - (4) The interdisciplinary team will be the primary vehicle for teacher-parent communication and collaboration.
- d. Flexibility within the schedule will be provided in order to facilitate interdisciplinary teaching, teacher-advisor or mentoring efforts, activity periods, and instructional support periods.
- e. Staffing ratios will adequate to support the interdisciplinary team organizational structure and content integrity.
- f. Middle schools will develop articulation plans to facilitate student transition, placement, and program continuity at each level.
- 4. School Climate

The nature of the learning environment is a critical intellectual, physical, factor in the and social-emotional development of each student. Each student needs to be encouraged to develop personal integrity, respect for differences, and social responsibility, as well as the desire, confidence, and capacity to strive for excellence.

To develop a climate that fosters student growth, schools will:

a. Ensure that students are expected, encouraged, and given opportunities to learn and succeed in a stimulating and supportive environment

- b. Establish high expectations for academic achievement and success of all students
- c. Provide a safe, orderly, and drug-free environment
- d. Support appreciation for and sensitivity toward all
- e. Value and foster positive risk taking to encourage intellectual inquiry and develop self-confidence
- f. Promote effective human relations
- g. View discipline as a means of helping students develop citizenship skills and responsibility for self
- h. Acknowledge and recognize student and staff achievement and community contributions
- i. Work to ensure that the total school population is reflected in all school activities
- j. Establish opportunities for students to participate in making decisions that affect their lives
- 5. Student Support and Reinforcement

Middle schools will provide a coordinated support and reinforcement program designed to address individual student needs and assessment measures.

- a. Support programs will foster student social, emotional, and academic progress. Examples of support programs include peer tutoring, homework club, mentors, homebase, teacher-advisory programs, peer counseling, team parents, and other cocurricular activities designed to improve overall student performance.
- b. Self-esteem for every student will be promoted through activities that enable students to develop skills in goal setting, problem solving, conflict resolution, leadership, and organization.
- c. Programs will provide positive reinforcement for students. Teams should use activities that reward, praise, and recognize efforts as they relate to the diverse needs and abilities of students.

- d. The Educational Management Team process will be incorporated into the interdisciplinary team structure.
- 6. Staff Development
  - a. MCPS staff will work closely with local teacher training institutions to share information regarding content enrichment, interdisciplinary instructional practices, and the unique needs of middle school students.
  - b. Inservice training will:
    - (1) Assist with middle school program implementation
    - (2) Help staff understand the unique needs of the middle school student
    - (3) Include practices and strategies for implementing the middle school program
    - (4) Provide teachers with models and methods for differentiated instruction for students of various abilities
    - (5) Provide training for teaching students with special needs
- D. Desired Outcomes
  - 1. A curriculum that gives appropriate attention to academic goals, the development of socially acceptable behaviors, and other human development needs of early adolescents
  - 2. Required subjects, exploratory courses, and special interest activities that are integrated into every aspect of the middle school program
  - 3. Programs, courses, and learning experiences that prepare students to transition successfully to senior high schools and to meet state and local learning outcomes
  - 4. Students who use higher order thinking skills
  - 5. A climate that is responsive to the changing developmental and educational needs of every student

- E. Implementation Strategies
  - 1. The curriculum will be implemented through a sequence of learning outcomes and related opportunities.
  - 2. Instruction will occur through both interdisciplinary and specific subject matter experiences.
  - 3. A broad range of assessment tools will be used to measure student outcomes, such as products, tests, and portfolios.
  - 4. A set of measures will be developed by the superintendent effectiveness and used to assess the of the implementation and achievement of the outcomes of the policy. These measures will be provided in a timely fashion to the Board for its review and revised as appropriate as evidence is acquired about the results of The results of implementation will be the policy. reported to the Board of Education annually for the first three years of implementation.
  - 5. Instructional, behavior management, and counseling strategies will support the needs of individual students.
  - 6. The specific budgetary requirements to implement this policy will be addressed by the superintendent in annual budget proposals to the Board of Education. The Board will seek to obtain the funding necessary for full implementation through the budget process (capital and operating).
- F. Review and Reporting

This policy will be reviewed every three years in accordance with the Board of Education policy review process.
